

Honoring the SSSP in Your Estate Planning

Thank you for considering the SSSP in your estate planning. Making a bequest to the SSSP ensures that the Society can continue to serve as a space that supports social justice research and the development of scholar-activists for years to come. The following is an example of making your wishes for bequests known in your estate planning. Please also consider consulting a financial or legal advisor when planning your estate especially for tax benefits and other details.

“I give or bequeath to the Society for the Study of Social Problems, a qualified charitable organization, the sum of $_____or the following percentage_____ of my estate or securities or property described here in, namely.....to be used as directed by the Board of Directors of the Society for the Study of Social Problems.”

Inform the Executive Officer if You Make a Generous Donation

If you honor the Society with a bequest, please contact the Executive Officer at hector.delgado49@gmail.com to discuss how you would like your donation to be recognized and celebrated. The Society will also respect your request for anonymity.
