

Agenda for Social Justice

Justice 21 Committee Editorial Search – Call for Applications

The Editorial and Publications Committee of the Society for the Study of Social Problems (SSSP) solicits applications for 1 position on the Editorial Team of the Justice 21 Committee. This committee serves the Society by producing the Agenda for Social Justice, Global Agenda for Social Justice, and any related rapid response volumes.

The Co-Editor's four-year term (2024-2027) will begin immediately upon acceptance of the position. The new co-editor will be responsible for editing and promoting volumes to be published in 2026 and 2028. A co-editor may be reappointed, or have their term extended, with the approval of the SSSP Editorial and Publications Committee and the SSSP Board of Directors. Applicants must be members or become members of the SSSP by the time of the application deadline and maintain membership during their tenure as co-editor.

The primary activity required is the cultivation, editing, and production of the Agenda for Social Justice and Global Agenda for Social Justice, volumes of public sociology published by Policy Press at the University of Bristol. While chapters in the volumes are grounded in rigorous social science, they are presented in a way that is accessible to a generally educated public. The editorial team is responsible for producing a volume every other year, alternating between US-focused volumes and global-focused volumes.

The committee seeks a diverse pool of candidates with good scholarly records, preferable academic editorial experience (e.g., service as journal editor or associate editor, editor of scholarly editions), strong organizational skills, and the ability to work and communicate well with others, including with scholars in academic and non-academic settings. Familiarity with the Agenda for Social Justice series and a commitment to the SSSP are essential. A new member should have a genuine commitment to working in the field of social justice, with an interest in the wide range of themes that the study of social problems encompasses. We encourage applications from scholars from all career stages, and applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Please direct inquiries to Dr. Kristen M. Budd (Justice 21 Committee Chair) at kbudd@sentencingproject.org.

To apply, please send applications to Dr. Marlese Durr (Editorial and Publications Committee Chair) at marlese.durr@wright.edu, with the subject line "Application to Join Agenda for Social Justice Editorial Team."

Deadline for applications is December 1, 2024.
