Spring 2021

Message from the Chair

Dear PCID Community,

I hope you all are managing as well as you can and that you are healthy and safe.

As we find ourselves almost a quarter of the way through 2021 already (!!) I have some good news from some members, the announcement of our incoming Division Chair, a call for papers, and Michael Harrington Award nomination reminder to share with you.

Please feel free to contact me (ekg@unm.edu) at any time should you have questions about PCID or SSSP. In the meantime, I wish you all safety and health.

Best,

Elizabeth Korver-Glenn, Ph.D.

2019-2021 Chair, PCID

Incoming PCI Division Chair, 2021-2023

Please join me in congratulating our incoming Poverty, Class & Inequality Division Chair, Dr. Rahim Kurwa!! He will serve as our chair from 2021-2023 (with term starting this summer around the time of our virtual conference).

Dr. Kurwa is Assistant Professor of Criminology, Law, and Justice at the University of Illinois at Chicago. Some of his recent research has been published in the Du Bois Review, Surveillance & Society, and Housing Policy Debate, among other outlets. I look forward to working with Dr. Kurwa as he makes the transition to Chair later this year!

Call for Papers – Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change

Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change (RSMCC) invites original submissions of manuscripts concerning social movements, social change, nonviolent action, and peace and conflict studies in general. This is an ongoing, open call for submissions to the RSMCC series, but to be considered for inclusion in Volume 46, manuscripts must arrive by April 5, 2021.

RSMCC generates new knowledge about central aspects of human life: why and how people organize for political and social change; the reasons for and consequences of social conflicts; and the various aspects of peacebuilding. In addition to advancing disciplinary scholarship on these topics, the series has provided an important home for interdisciplinary and international scholarship at the forefront of research and theory development related to societies' struggles over resources, power, and agency. Social movement scholars have used the RSMCC series to connect their research with theories of peacebuilding and nonviolence while other scholars have used the series to explore new frontiers in peace and conflict studies, including cutting-edge work on civil resistance, or violence by state and non-state actors.

RSMCC is a peer-reviewed series of original research that has been published annually for over 40 years. We continue to publish the work of many of the leading scholars along with upcoming quantitative and qualitative researchers. RSMCC enjoys a wide library subscription base for the book versions. Additionally, volumes are available online through Emerald Insight via subscribing libraries or individual subscriptions. This ensures wider distribution and easier access to your scholarship while maintaining the book series at the same time. This title is indexed in Scopus and volumes from this series are included in the Thomson Reuters Book Citation Index.

Submissions

To be considered for inclusion in Volume 46, papers must arrive by April 5, 2021; later submissions will be considered for future volumes (RSMCC publishes 1-2 volumes per year). After the editor assesses the suitability of your manuscript for publishing in RSMCC, manuscripts will go through double-blind peer review. Initial decisions are generally made within 10 weeks.

Send submission as a WORD document attached to an email to Lisa Leitz, RSMCC series editor, at rsmcc@chapman.edu. Remove all self-references in the text and in the bibliography. Word counts should generally not exceed 12,000 words, inclusive of supplemental materials (abstract, tables, bibliography, notes, etc.). Include the paper's title and an unstructured abstract on the first page of the text itself. Send a second file that contains the article title, the unstructured abstract, and full contact information for all authors. For initial submissions, any standard social science in-text citation and bibliographic system is acceptable; final versions will use APA citations.

Reminder: Michael Harrington Award Nominations Due 4/1/2021

DEADLINE: 4/1/2021

The Poverty, Class, and Inequality Division (PCI) of the Society for the Study of Social Problems invites nominations for the 2021 Michael Harrington Award. This award will be granted to an individual, organization, faculty, or student that by their actions advances our understanding of poverty, social class, and/or inequality, and/or proposes effective and practical ways to attend to the needs of the economically marginalized and reduce class inequalities. Self-nominations are acceptable. The award will be presented at the 2021 SSSP meetings in Chicago. The winner will receive a plaque at our divisional meeting, during which we will honor the work of Michael Harrington. One-page nomination letters should be sent electronically to the committee chair Dr. Anthony Jack (anthony_jack@gse.harvard.edu). Supplemental materials may be requested.
